

HDTV Copy record flags are a bad idea. I watch a great deal of TV and would like to time-slip my watching so that I can see the shows that are on in bad time slots. Would that not be covered under fair use? Also there are a many really bad commercials, I used to just leave the room when they were on and miss part of my program, now I speed watch them so I can skip the REALLY stupid ones.